BOMB PLOTTERS TRY TO KILL PUBLIC MEN

Lay Plots to Start a Reign of Terror Throughout the Country.

Washington.—Radical agitators to-night apparently attempted to inaugurate another reign of terrorism throughout the country through the planting of informal machines near the residences of prominent men.

Within a few minutes after the explosion of a bomb at the door of Attorney General Palmer's residence here, with the killing of one man, evidently the person planting the bomb, reports were received from Boston, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Paterson, N. J., New York and Newtonville, Mass.

In all cases except Paterson and Philadelphia, the bomb attempts were directed against the lives of public officials. In Paterson the home of a silk manufacturer was wrecked, while in Philadelphia, where two explosions occurred, attempts were made to blow up a Catholic church and a private residence.

The similarity of the reports received from the various cities recalled to authorities the May Day bomb plot of a month ago.

CHILDREN'S NIGHT

(Horse Branch Special)

Horse Branch, Ky., June 3: Sunday night was Children's night at the Union Church, and was one of the best entertainments ever given in Horse Branch. The union Sunday-school, composed of the Methodist, Baptist and Christian churches, gave the entertainment. The house was crowded to overflowing and not more than half of the people could find seats. A splendid program consisting of drills, musical renderings and pantomimes was given, which was highly appreciated by the audience. The house was decorated with flowers and bunting. Old Glory playing a prominent part, and the whole occasion was one of the most delightful affairs ever staged in Horse Branch. The music was in charge of Mrs. J. S. Bean.

DEATHS OF BEAVER DAM

(Special to Herald)

Burges Austin died at his home in Beaver Dam last Friday with a complication of diseases. He was 68 years old and survived by three children, Herbert, Mrs. Lena Taylor and Miss Maud Austin, besides two sisters, Mrs. Bottie Knave, of Owensboro, and Mrs. Marilda Shackelford, of Texas. Mr. Austin lived most of his life in Beaver Dam and vicinity having helped to build the first houses in Beaver Dam after the town was laid off. He was bereft of his companion when his children were quite small and without the help of a mother watched over and cared for them until they were grown, being so closely confined to his home in the care of his children that he had no chance to attend church, but he was a devoted Christian and taught his children the same. After funeral services conducted by the Rev. Edgar Allen Saturday afternoon his remains were laid to rest by the side of his companion in the Baptist church cemetery.

William Maddox, better known as Uncle Billie, died at his home on Louis Creek last Friday with diseases incident to old age, he was seventy-seven years old, had lived all his life in the neighborhood where he died. He is survived by his wife and several children. Truly another good man has gone. He was one of the oldest members of Beaver Dam church. His interment was in the cemetery of the church where he belonged. Rev. Edgar Allen conducted the funeral two old people laid to rest in Beaver Dam cemetery last Saturday afternoon. The writer was a pupil with both men in school in our boyhood days.

BROTHERS DROWN

One of the saddest events that has ever occurred in the county took place near Horse Branch Sunday when two brothers, Hubert and Millard Geary, were drowned in Caney Creek, while in swimming. About 9 o'clock the two boys, together with a small boy, went to Caney Creek at a point just above White Run, with the intention of going in bathing. The small boy did not go in, and it was he that gave the word that the Geary boys were drowned.

It seems that the channel of the creek at this place is very narrow but deep, it being some seven feet in depth at this place. The boys misjudged the depth and the younger boy plunged into the water which was very cold and immediately took cramp. The older brother, seeing him struggling, jumped after him, but the boy was drowning and struggled so fiercely to get to the shore that both were drowned. The boy who was with them became frightened and ran home. Their lives could possibly have been saved had he retained his self-composure as some men were in a field nearby when the accident occurred. The boys remained at the bottom of the creek for about two hours. A search for the bodies, which lasted over an hour, resulted in finding them and they were taken to the home of their mother, Mrs. Fannie Geary, near White Run. They were buried Monday in the same coffin, at the request of their mother. Mrs. Geary is very low with tuberculosis and the shock was so severe she is not expected to recover. Hubert was 21 years of age and Millard was 14.

Quite a romantic wedding took place here last week, when Stauley Gilstrap and Mae Miller were married in automobile, near the courthouse. It seems that the couple preferred to remain seated in the machine while Judge Cook made them man and wife. The young people were from Select.

Mr. Balze is making an effort to have a large section of the county developed, believing that the prospects for oil production are good. Ohio County lies in the very center of a rich oil belt, according to the geological survey, and should have some of the richest fields in the state.

Mr. A. M. Palmer, who has been mail carrier on McHenry Route 1, formerly Hartford Route 4, has resigned and will leave Sunday for Auburn, New York, from whence he came seven years ago. Corporal Alvin Porter, son of Will Porter, of McHenry, has arrived home after eleven months' service overseas. He was in several engagements and was gassed though it did not injure him permanently. Corporal Porter is well known to the readers of The Herald by the series of very interesting letters from him which were published in the Herald last fall and winter. He has a knack at description that is possessed by few and his humorous sidelights on the great war compared favorably with the English humorists' "Kitchener's Chaps" and the inimitable anecdotes of Lieutenant Streeter. Corporal Porter is as interesting in conversation as in writing and that is saying a good deal after the compliments we have heard about his letters. We welcome him home.

ADDITION TRAVEL ALLOWANCE FOR SOLDIERS

Soldiers and sailors can now secure additional travel allowance if discharged since November, 1918, they being allowed mileage at the rate of five cents per mile. This in some instances will amount to considerable, as in the case of soldiers who have come a great distance. This applies equally to soldiers and sailors. For information and blanks, see Miss Elizabeth Moore at the office of E. G. BARRASS.

GERMANY MUST ANSWER BEFORE JUNE 25TH

Allies Will Refuse to Consider Counter Proposals of the Germans.

Paris.—The reply of the Allied and Associated Governments to the German counter proposals, the Echo de Paris declares, will be handed to count von Brockdorff-Rantzau on Friday. It will constitute a refusal of the German proposals.

The Germans, the newspaper adds, will be told they must either accept or refuse the Allied conditions before June 25.

ROAD SPIRIT DEVELOPING

There is a distinct evidence of a development of a good roads spirit in the county by the attendance and enthusiasm shown at the various good roads meetings being held in the different parts of the county. At Rockport a meeting was held Monday night with a fine crowd and a great deal of interest manifested, and a meeting at Buford to discuss the proposed highway from Owensboro to Bowling Green was well attended.

The Owensboro-Bowling Green road is practically assured. It is now only question of organization and getting down to business. And now comes the agitation for another highway which will doubtless traverse Ohio County at some point, if not across the entire width of the county. It is proposed to build a bee line from Dawson Springs to Louisville and the only direct route this road could possibly go, would be through the center of this county. It has been suggested that the road run by way of Owensboro, and in this instance, it would of necessity have to run through a large portion of the county, passing through Rockville.

Judge Cook has called a meeting of the officials of the different counties interested in the Owensboro-Bowling Green highway to meet at Owensboro on June 11th, to consider plans and discuss proposals concerning the building of this road. The road fever is spreading at a rapid rate and if it keeps up and talk materializes into action, the county will soon be threatened by plies equal to any in the state.

ALL TEACHERS PASSED

In the recent examination in agriculture all the teachers who took the examination passed. To many said it was new, having been introduced into the curriculum since last year. Some of the teachers have written County Superintendent Howard, asking him to send them their grades. Mr. Howard asked the teachers, at the time of the examination, to mail him their certificates and he would place the grades on same and return them. So far, there are about thirty teachers who have not mailed their certificates and do not know how they stand.

In the general and agricultural examination together there were 116 took it—110 at Hartford and 6 at Bowling Green. Five of these were colored.

COURTHOUSE WEDDING

It just lacked one day of being a June Wedding, but it came so near it that it can almost be counted as one. Mr. Oscar Lively, a farmer of Booneville, Indiana, and Miss Beulah Wilson, of near Olaton, composed the happy couple who were made husband and wife by the good offices of Judge Cook Saturday. Mrs. Lively is an attractive young lady and the daughter of Mr. J. R. Wilson, a well known farmer of the Olaton vicinity. We wish them a long happy life.

Sheriff S. A. Bratcher went to Louisville Saturday, having in custody Alton Paris, who deserted from Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and returned to Ohio County. He was accused of detaining a woman against her will at Cromwell and arrested at Owensboro. The military authorities sent the sheriff notice that he had deserted and the court released him and he was taken to Camp Taylor and turned over to the officers.

KENTUCKY'S RICH HERITAGE

Successful Development of a Great National Industry in Kentucky—A New Field of Opportunity

People of Kentucky are beginning to recognize the importance of oil in the state. It has certainly brought some tremendous investments to Louisville in the nature of oil refineries. Another large oil refinery will be built immediately adjoining the Standard Oil plant there.

It is said that Henry Ford, of Detroit, is largely interested in this proposition. Mr. Ford has always been interested in cheap fuel for cars and tractors, and the development of the gasoline engine has made a tremendous demand for fuel for motive power.

The adaptation of the gas engine for so many new and diverse purposes, the automobile, steamships and railroads, etc., would seem to indicate that we are entering upon a new era where oil for fuel will be THE great demand.

The Possibilities in Kentucky.
The possibilities of Kentucky as an oil producing state have only recently been recognized, and so far the development has not with pronounced success. In fact, the profit would seem extravagant, but it is a matter of record that the percentage of failures in the Kentucky oil fields is comparatively low, and the cost of drilling much less than in other fields.

Fifteen years ago Mr. S. J. Gish, a mineral expert with wide experience in Western Kentucky, an associate of Gen. T. C. Dapont in his coal development, was convinced that a large pool of oil of unusual proportion existed in the western part of the state.

A Producer of "Liquid Gold" Hid in the Woods at Diamond Springs.

He was also a man of vision and saw that the near future would disclose a demand for oil, the scope of which would be almost impossible to calculate. When that time arrived the oil industry would come into its own and yield handsome returns. Accordingly he bought up a large tract of land and made the most careful tests and waited for the opportune time to disclose this FIND to the general public.

Development Has Begun.
The Equitable Oil and Gas Co. has now taken over all this land held in such esteem by Mr. Gish. They think the time has arrived for its fullest development.

The Equitable Oil and Gas Corporation was recently organized at Wilmington, Delaware, for the purpose of taking over and operating the Diamond Springs Oil and Gas Field. Its authorized capital is $5,000,000, and the par value of its shares $1.00 each, and no stock is to be sold under par. The management of the company is exceptionally strong, being composed of some of the leading and most successful oil and business men of the state. Two hundred and fifty thousand shares of the capital stock have been offered for sale at the par value of $1.00 per share, the proceeds of the sale of this stock to be used for the immediate drilling of additional oil and gas wells and for such other purposes as may serve to put the company on a dividend basis at the earliest possible moment.

Logan County the Field.
The land is situated in Logan County, and is known as the Diamond Springs Field. That it is rich in oil is news to the general public, but for at least fifteen years it has been under the observation of mineral experts and geologists and subjected to the severest tests known to science.

Dozens of wells were drilled here and a quarter of a million dollars was spent in experimental and development work. Some of the oil wells drilled are reported to have gushed oil far above the derricks, and, after being pumped for from ten to fourteen years, these wells are still producing oil in quantities not believed to be equalled by wells half so old in any other part of the state.

Gas wells were drilled with a reported daily production of two and three million cubic feet, which are still producing large volumes of gas today, without any indication of becoming exhausted. Operations continued without publicity until a territory embracing nearly 5,000 acres was tested, and then it was saved, practically hidden by nature, from the watchful eye of the general public and the oil and gas prospector, until crude oil had come into its own, and the opportune time for its complete development had arrived.

The Price of Oil.
Oil is now selling at the highest prices in the history of the industry.

The gas fields of Eastern Kentucky and West Virginia are rapidly becoming depleted and West Virginia has recently enacted a law prohibiting the transportation of natural gas out of that state. The future of the oil industry is fixed and it has established itself as the greatest money-making industry of the age.

The plans of the Equitable Oil and Gas Co. are comprehensive. Apart from all production, they propose to install "Casing Head" plants and produce enough gasoline as a by-product to pay all operation expenses.

They propose to supply natural gas to all the surrounding cities within a radius of seventy-five miles—they have already pipe lines to Danmore, Lewisburg and Russellville.

For the production of oil they have approximately twenty-five thousand acres of leases and two drilling rigs already on the ground. Their plans also contemplate the installation of a modern refinery. This is said to be the safest and most profitable branch of the oil industry. With so many chances of profit failure would seem almost impossible.

The First Oil Well.
The story of the finding of the first oil well in Kentucky is well known and has many versions. One version is that a man drilling for salt, to his great consternation, struck oil.

Contrary to the advice of the oldest inhabitants this man persisted in a drilling for salt in an unpromising spot. He swore that he would dig until he found salt or hell. One day he found his salt diggers in flames. He thought he had found hell, and raising hell not being a popular pastime in Kentucky, he stood not upon his order of his leaving, but left at once for parts unknown. We repeat this story as an evidence of the changed attitude of the oil industry. Today a man thinks it is hell to strike salt.

The Oil Banquet at Louisville.
Another significant indication of the change in sentiment toward the oil industry in Kentucky is a banquet that is to be given by the Board of Trade to the oil men, recognizing this industry as one of immense importance to the state.

For the benefit of those interested the Equitable Oil Co. have just printed a souvenir booklet, "An Interesting Story of Hidden Wealth." It contains a complete history of the discovery and development of the Diamond Springs Field. A copy of this book, we understand, may be had for the asking so long as the edition lasts. It is full of exceedingly interesting and valuable information, and will prove a decided addition to the library of the man or woman interested in oil.

FROM GUY RANNEY
Cedar Rapids, Ia.
Editor Herald,
Hartford, Ky.

I thought perhaps some of the readers of The Herald might be interested in a letter from Iowa. Cedar Rapids is 210 miles west of Chicago on the main line of the Chicago and North Western Railroad, other railroads that lead into the city are the Rock Island, Illinois central and the C. M. & St. P. The town has a population of 45,000 and is a very beautiful town especially in the residential section, some of the most beautiful avenues and paved streets of the country are in Cedar Rapids.

There are several wholesale houses here. Three wholesale Grocery houses, a wholesale dry goods Fruit houses, a wholesale dry goods house besides some other smaller houses, a meat packing plant owned by I. M. Sinclair & Co., which does an immense business in the west. The home of Quaker Oats is here their largest mill and the largest mill of its kind in the world is located here, the National Oats mill is here also. The Douglass starch works, the home of Douglass Oil is here, this factory employs a large number of men and women. Several other small factories are here which employ a great many people.

They have good schools here and plenty of them near. Coe College is situated here and one of the best Colleges in the state, it is only 30 miles to Mt. Vernon where the Cornell University is and 28 miles to Iowa City the state University is also here.

We also have two good hospitals. It is a dry town. Living here is not so high with the exception of rent, a good house in a good neighborhood costs from $25 to $40 a month.

There is plenty of amusement, such as movies, opera plays, howling, billiards, skating and dancing and always some kind of entertainment from out of town, yesterday we had a parade and concert by a French Army Band, all of the players had seen very hard service on the battle front and many of them bore the mark from shot and shell, they drew quite a crowd to town.

The National Swine Breeders Association meets here every year in the month of October and all the different kinds of Swine Breeders from all the states gather here and bring some of their best breeds with them for Exhibition, if there should be any Ohio County Breeders interested enough to attend would be glad for them to look me up at the present time I am with C. Deuecke corner of 2nd St. and 2nd avenue in the Grocery Dept. I think this will do for this time.

Yours very respectfully,
GUY RANNEY.

THE SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS

Many farmers in Ohio County have spoken of seeing great numbers of the cicada, or seventeen-year locusts on their farms and perhaps the following article by Prof. A. R. Middleton, professor of Botany at the University of Louisville, will be of interest to our readers:

"Eggs are deposited by the adult near the bottom of the tree trunks," he said. "These eggs develop into small grubs within a few days, and the grub works its way into the ground. It bores out a large chamber, for it will grow ultimately. The grub lives on the tender roots of the tree in the summer and becomes dormant for the greater part of the winter."

"It moults about three times during its seventeen-year stay in the earth. When it reaches maturity it works its way to the surface, climbs the trunk of a tree and proceeds to cast its shell. It emerges usually at night, and after hovering on a branch for a time to allow its wings to dry is ready for flight."

"The life of the cicada is short; it seldom lives for more than six weeks. After reaching the winged state the insect feeds on foliage, often causing great destruction. In the South the insect takes from thirteen to seventeen years to develop, and in the North it reaches the flight stage in from eight to seventeen years."

"The female is dumb, but the male makes a singing noise by means of a set of muscles beneath its wings."

No apparent damage has yet been done to the foliage by the pest.

WORDS TO MOTHER

Belgian Camp,
Mrs. C. M. Whorey,
Dear Mother:—As this is Sunday and Mother's day, will drop you a few lines. It is true I am in France with a million and a half others but it is well to know, while we are here, our hearts are back in the good old U. S. A., with our loved ones. Guess you all think we boys have a nice time and don't think of you often, but there isn't a day or night we don't think of home and mother. No matter how good a time we have over here and the many wonderful things we see over here, there is one thing we will be more proud to see and that is the sight of you when the old ship has turned her prow into the harbor of home sweet home. It isn't here what people think it is. True enough the war is over; but if the war were not over we wouldn't think so much of coming home. But why should we stay here when there is nothing to stay for? Do not worry for I am in good health and will be home soon.
Love to all,

I Owe My Life to PERUNA

Mr. McKinley's letter brings cheer to all who may be sufferers as he was. Read it:

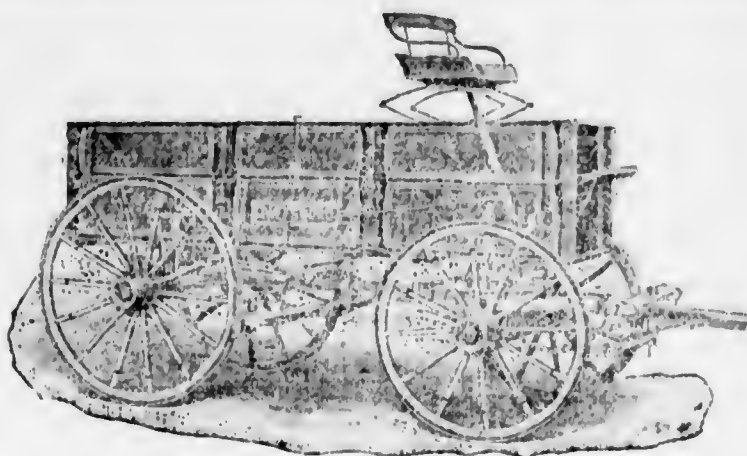

"I can honestly say that I owe my life to Peruna. After some of the best doctors in the country gave me up and told me I could not live another month, Peruna saved me. Travelling from town to town, throughout the country and having to go into all kinds of badly heated stores and buildings, sometimes standing up for hours at a time while playing my trade as auctioneer, it is only natural that I had colds frequently; so when this would occur I paid little attention to it, until last December when I contracted a severe case, which, through neglect on my part, settled on my lungs. When at last I began doctoring, but, without avail, until I heard of Peruna. It cured me! so I cannot praise it too highly."

If we have nothing else this summer, prospects look good for blackberries.

Republican primaries are a thing of the past. They hand-pick them these days.

It is a happy coincidence that July first comes in the hottest and driest time of the year.

Soldiers of the American Expeditionary Forces can now receive packages from home without having to send written requests.

There have been many persons in the uniform of soldiers selling souvenirs, etc., in different parts of the country and it is thought that most of them are frauds. The Red Cross is investigating these men and makes public the statement that no one is authorized to wear the uniform of a soldier unless actually in the service or recently discharged from same. Never for commercial purposes.

The Republican platform contains a plank against lynching, presumably as a bait for the negro vote. But it took a Democratic Governor to stand between a negro and an angry mob and risk personal injury, while a Republican Governor, afraid to risk his own skin, sent white soldiers to shoot white citizens down if necessary to protect a negro. Stanley won by moral bravery, Gus Wilson by force, and bullying. Both whites and negroes may take their choice.

The first problem from the League of Nations, or whatever other coalition is formed will have to take charge of, is Mexico. Already Villa is again on a rampage and the country is in a state of revolution. Carranza, by the use of the iron hand, has kept the people in a state of quietude for a good while, but even now they are breaking the rules of restraint and are beginning to assert themselves. Trouble will eventually follow that may call our armies again to the border and possibly embroil us in another war of intervention.

Last week when the weather cleared and warmed up, we noticed farmers working with a will, working ground so wet that the mud clung to the wheels of the cultivators. Our knowledge of farming is so limited that we could not give advice on our own authority, but competent agricultural men inform us that this is anything but the safe thing to do. While there is plenty of moisture at present, it is possible that a long dry spell will follow in the wake of this wet weather, and if the ground becomes parched it will mean the ruin of the crops.

The fateful day arrived and the Germans did not sign. The Allied boasts of military operation should they fail to do so, resolved itself into an empty threat and they were given more time in which to prepare and throw their arrogance into face of a world which has defeated them. And all the while the American soldiers languish in homesick ennui on the banks of the Rhine, longing for activity or or death or a sight of home, while peace parleys are in progress and plenipotentiaries are drawing salaries and expenses. The world is going to grow tired of this delay and demand that they "do" or quit ere long.

A great agitation is on foot to increase the teachers' salaries. If there was ever a commendable undertaking, this is one. It has long been a lamentable fact that the professions requiring higher learning are the poorest paid. Your business spends a few years in school and a few in business application and his yearly income runs into the thousands; your professional man spends years in school—in fact, he is never quite through—and his income is in the hundreds. It is also a fact that no one remains longer in the teaching profession than he earns a competence, then he goes on to better paid vocations. That is, unless, like the minister, he has the sentimental spirit of self-sacrifice. But if anyone should be amply paid, it is he or she, who guides the early footsteps of childhood and fosters those ideals that make the race better with each generation.

Those who have noticed the clean neat appearance of the court house yard must feel that a compliment is due Jailer Worth Tichenor for his care of same. If a few seats were provided in the shade of the courtyard trees where those waiting for the trains would have a place to rest, it would add considerable to the hospitable reputation of the town. As it is, those who come from a distance and are forced to wait for the evening train often find themselves at a loss as to a place where they can while away the time. The placing of a few comfortable seats in the courthouse yard would provide a place of rest and place Hartford higher in the estimation of the country people.

FROM ARIZONA

Hartford Herald,
Hartford, Ky.,
Dear Editor:—Please have my address changed on your mailing list to Flagstaff, Ariz., which is now Bellemont. I have been transferred from the Tusayan National forest to the Coconino and have been placed in charge of the Flagstaff Lumber Co.'s operation for the government. With the good prices now offered for lumber, all the big lumber Co.'s are in full swing, and the prices on labor in this section of the country is good.

The farmers have planted a good crop of oats, and the cow and sheep men are rejoicing as the spring rains have set in and their stock tanks are full to running over, and the sheep herder who has just arrived upon the Plateau with many beautiful bands of Buracos, are peacefully while away their lonely hours watching the beautiful fleeces grow rapidly into money, as the price this year was 60c and the crop of lambs this year was excellent.

With best wishes to all,
Very truly yours,
RICHARD T. ROSS.

U. S. MAY SELL FOOD TO HEROES' WIDOWS

Washington—Under a bill transmitted to the Senate to-day by Secretary of War, the army, navy and Marine Corps who lost their lives in the war would be permitted as long as they remained unmarried to purchase subsistence stores from the Government at prices charged officers and men. Mr. Baker said "this would mean a great deal to the widows in view of the excessive cost of food in the open market."

Get Thorough Cultivation Without Hard Work

When you use a cultivator you want thorough cultivation first of all. But you want to get this result in the shortest possible time and with the least possible labor.

We want you to see why using the John Deere KC Cultivator does away with the necessity for hard work, and at the same time gets the most thorough results.

Here are just a few of its features that will appeal to you.

Using it, you can meet every field condition without stopping to make adjustments. No wrench is necessary. Cultivation at even depth and distance of cultivation from the row are accurately regulated, by means of handy levers.

Because of its parallel shift rigs, its shovels always face squarely to their work. They never track or trail in dodging on crooked rows. No uncultivated spots are left. You get thorough cultivation over all of the field.

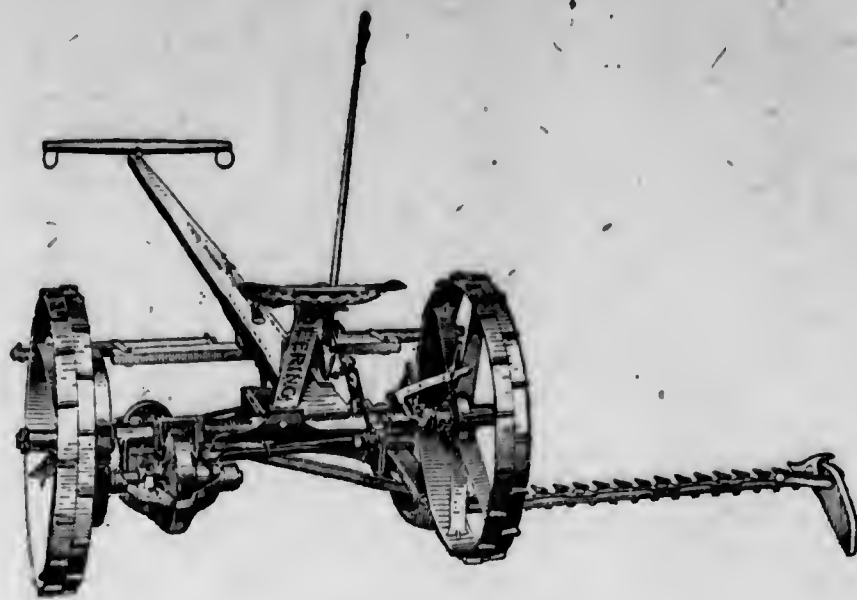

The rigs shift quickly in response to slight pressure on the foot levers. Guiding the rigs is as natural as walking.

We want you to get into the seat of this cultivator and see for yourself how handy and reliable it is. We've never seen its equal for time-saving, labor-saving, weed-destroying work in the field.

Don't fail to come in early and get acquainted with the "K C."

KENTUCKY VETERANS BEGIN ORGANIZING

American Legion Plans To Take In Nearly 100,000 Former Soldiers And Sailors

PARTISAN POLITICS BARRED; RANK NOT AN ISSUE

Hartshurst, Ky., May 25.—(Special.)—One hundred thousand Kentuckians, soldiers, sailors and marines, who were the uniform in the great war, at home and abroad, are forming throughout the State what will be units of The American Legion, the great association of veterans started early this month at a national caucus in St. Louis, at which all existing projects for such an organization were nullified and at which a program was laid down to enable every precinct, county, town, city and State to begin organizing.

Until the St. Louis meeting, projects in various parts of our State and nation were held in abeyance because of the lack of a definite national movement, though in all quarters there existed a strong sentiment for an early association through which could be perpetuated the ideals for which the war was fought, through which the returned soldier and sailor could become more of a factor in Government and through which all things that stood for right, progress, and undivided Americanism could be upheld. Now, with a definite and unqualified national organization, Kentucky veterans are going ahead.

Appointment of an Executive Committee for Kentucky and a call for a meeting of that body at The Seelbach, in Louisville, Saturday, May 31st, is announced by Judge Henry Dehaven Morrison, of this county, who was elected temporary State Commander by the Kentucky delegation in St. Louis. D. A. Sachs, Adjutant, has been directed by the National Executive Committee to proceed with the incorporation of the Legion in Kentucky. These articles of incorporation and the date upon which organization meetings will be held simultaneously in every county in Kentucky will be considered by the Executive Committee at this meeting, as well as other important matters.

Under authority given him in St. Louis, Judge Morrison has appointed an executive committee as follows: Major D. Williams, Lexington, State-at-large; M. L. Seelbach, Louisville, State-at-large; V. G. Fraser, Wickliffe, first district; M. K. Gordon, Madisonville, second district; Dr. John Young, Glasgow, third district; S. H. Jones, Elizabethtown, fourth district; Ernest O'Neal, Louisville, fifth district; William Cronwall, Frankfort, sixth district; George B. Smith, Lexington, seventh district; John M. M. Danville, eighth district; Walter Mobley, Olive Hill, ninth district; Sewell Woods, Hazard, tenth district; Vernon Hamilton, Harpoot, eleventh district; George Ewald, of Louisville, is the State Finance Officer.

The Kentucky delegation, at St. Louis, recommended chairman for some of the districts and authorized the State Commander to appoint a chairman and two vice-chairmen for each Congressional District. Immediately after the Executive Committee meets, these appointments will be announced. The district chairmen will then promptly designate a person in each county to officially organize a post at the county seat, and to aid and assist elsewhere, but each post shall direct its own officers and manage its affairs without outside interference.

The tentative organizations now being formed will receive charters later through the State organization. The absence of charters, however, Commander Morrison explains, does not deter the immediate formation of posts in precincts, counties, towns or cities. Under the constitution adopted by the national caucus, any fifteen or more eligible veterans can associate themselves together in the formation of a post. In the Fifth district, embracing Louisville, the organizations of such benches has been undertaken by Chairman McMeekin along the lines of military organizations in which Louisville men were largely represented, such as the 39th National Army Regiment, the former First Kentucky National Guard Regiment, etc., and also along the lines of large institutions or industries from which there went a large number of soldiers or sailors who participated in the war. The method of organizing posts is being left to the local organizers. Each post, however, will have a commander, vice commander, finance officer, adjutant, chaplain, and master-at-arms.

Louisville has been made Southern Headquarters of the National Committee on Publicity and Information, of which George S. Wheat, of the New York Herald; Virle Bell, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, and Jack Collier, of Pontiac, Idaho, are members. Returning veterans are applying to Southern headquarters for information, and it will be given them as received from National and State Headquarters.

Throughout Kentucky, according to reports reaching Southern headquarters, much interest is being manifested in the Legion, not only by former service men, but by their mothers and fathers and other loved ones interested in seeing their soldiers permanently identified as having taken part in the struggle for liberty. When the date is fixed for the county organization meetings these meetings are held, it is expected that these sentiments will be crystallized. Kentucky gave the lives of 2,688 of her sons to the cause. Preservation of the memories of these heroes and their deeds is an aim of the Legion. But there will be practical help to the returning soldiers in the organization, according to plans outlined by the temporary organization, which, as it composes the delegates who went to St. Louis, is the present nucleus of the movement in Kentucky. Bureaus will be established for the purpose of obtaining employment for returned soldiers, and for obtaining information on war risk insurance, bonuses, compensation for disability and other subjects in which he or his family had a vital interest. New works of this nature will be taken up as the policies of the Legion are defined.

The American Legion had its inception in Paris last year when a group of reserve and National Guard officers of field rank, gathered in Paris on an official mission, took advantage of the opportunity to suggest a permanent association of veterans. These pioneers quickly saw the necessity of making the Legion a medium for not only the overseas officer, but for the enlisted man and for those officers and enlisted men who were denied the privilege of "getting over" as well. In the same manner, the Navy and Marine Corps were taken in.

The Paris conference suggested that a representative meeting be held in St. Louis May 8, 9 and 10 in order to sound the sentiment of those now on home soil. At this caucus, which took place under auspicious conditions, no permanent organization was formed, although forty-seven states were fully represented, it being decided to withhold decisive action until the great convention which will be held November 11 in Minneapolis, which will be more truly representative and which will enable many of those now on the other side to participate. It is planned for the veterans of every county to have a part in the naming of delegates to this convention in November.

The debate given Chicago at the St. Louis meeting, when the delegates refused to hold the "November" convention in that city because of its allegedly un-American Mayor, is well known, but is regarded of vast significance as to the part to be taken by the Legion in the nation's affairs. It is well settled and understood that the Legion will not be used as a partisan organization, or tolerate any selfish or improper motives, but will strive to accomplish the noble purposes enumerated in the preamble of its constitution, and will be a real medium of service to its members, to the state and nation and those who follow.

DOGS CALLED SHEEP MENACE

Lexington, Ky., May 25.—The Executive Committee of the Kentucky Sheep Breeders' Association to-day announced resolutions adopted by the members here, who are among the leading sheep producers of the State. It is declared that the greatest menace to the sheep industry is the dog, which fact "has done more in recent years not only to cause sheep men to become disgusted and dispose of their flocks, but also to keep hundreds of other men from going into the business." Losses to sheep in 1916, the latest report available, were from one to sixty-eight head per flock, it is said. Declaring that the dog law should continue to be strictly enforced and that sheep breeders and kindred livestock associations in Kentucky will continue to support it despite its importance being questioned in some quarters, the resolution says: "The dog law represents in the opinion of members of the Sheep Breeders' Association, the best opinion of the livestock interests of Kentucky, the method by which livestock may be protected from dogs, that the present law as enacted is satisfactory to the livestock interests of the State; that it is effectively administered and that it is a source of protection to the farmer and has met with no complaint from taxpayers."

FIRE AT CAMP DIX BURNS BARRACKS AND EQUIPMENT

Camp Dix, N. J.—Several officers of the 25th and other divisions, attached to the casual officer detachment while awaiting discharge, lost their equipment and many souvenirs of their foreign service in a fire in their barracks at noon today. The blaze, thought to have started from a cigarette, spread rapidly through the frame building, causing excitement in that part of the camp, at present crowded with soldiers awaiting discharge. The absence of wind enabled the camp's fire department to keep the flames confined to the structure in which they started. Much of the baggage stored in the building was salvaged after the fire started. Several officers had narrow escapes from injury in saving their effects.

Major Lewis M. Scott, formerly of the 36th Machine Gun Battalion of the 77th Division and son of Major Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Camp Commander, has been assigned to duty here.

FROM ARKANSAS

Horatio, Ark.

Editor Herald,
Hartford, Ky.

Dear Mr. Editor:
Am writing you this, trusting you will find space in your valuable paper that I may hear from some of my old schoolmates and neighbors. It has been many months since I heard from my native county. My uncle Matthews Neal raised me and my two brothers. He had only one child, E. P. Neal, of Hartford. He died at the age of 40, so I have been told. He left a family of three or four children. The last I heard from them they had moved to Tulsa, Okla. I left that state in the year 1869. My two brothers, Joseph A. Neal and Alford P. Neal, left the state several years later in the state at years after me. Brother Joseph of Arkansas, Randolph county; I am the only one of my father's family living. I am related to the Turners, Shults, Davenport and Hawes. I would be pleased to hear from any of my old acquaintances through the columns of your paper or by letter.

Kind regards to all,
J. A. NEAL.

LITTLE SWEETHEART

Little sweetheart, whose years are nine,
Smile at me now with those eyes of thine;
Stand here beside me, dear, let me caress
And fondle those curls with the old tenderness.
Let me look down in those soft eyes of blue
And wonderingly dream if it really is you.
Parted forever, yet never shall part
The memory of you, my little sweetheart.

Little sweetheart, the years are so long,
And oh, how I've missed hearing that childish song
Of "Dollie" so sweetly which you used to sing
In our playhouse down there in the orchard in spring!
When the cherry-tree ocean was casting its foam
Of soft snowy blooms round our make-believe home,
And the butterflies flashed in the dreamy sunshine—
Do you know how you chased them, sweetheart mine?

Come, bring all your toys, and here on the floor
We will build a block house as in far days of yore,
And call it our "castle" where we shall reside
When I am your lover and you are my bride.
But one block too many we place on the crown,
Which ruins its balance and it all topples down!
Oh, it all topples down! And were not our dreams so?
And where are the castles we built long ago?

I cannot forget you, my sweetheart so true;
All of the world cannot rob me of you.
And all the fine women with whom I have met
Can never catch all me or make me forget.
Despite their palaver and coquetting ways,
My mind wanders back to my sweet childhood days,
And ever I hunger and dream with you there,
In the light of your eye, and the folds of your hair.

Come now and stand by me. Love's songs all are sung;
My heart has grown old though my life yet is young;
And ever my fancies go flitting away
To lost loves that dwell in that far yesterday.
But sweetest of all is that memory divine
That enshrines you and keeps you my sweetheart of mine.
And out from my life neither love, fame nor art,
Shall ever remove you, my little sweetheart.

Farm Improvement and Rural Construction Work Will Aid in Readjustment

Farm products have a greater purchasing power today than ever before in the country's history. This may explain why rural districts of the country rapidly are getting under way with building and construction work. It is obvious, since building and construction work have such an important bearing at this time on stimulating general business, the farmer may serve both his own and the national interest by at once making needed improvements on his property. He can further the general welfare while assuring himself of immediate and permanent benefits, in urging road construction and improvements in his locality.

It is generally understood no material reduction may be expected in building and construction costs in the near future. To be sure, prices on some materials may be slightly reduced in the readjustment, but the best authorities on the subject assert no pronounced reductions are probable. This is explained by money conditions, the foreign demand, and the marked curtailment of production of building materials during the war. Prof. Fisher of Yale University has issued a statement in which he says the country is on a new price level from which there will be no general recession.

Many farmers have been unable to get materials and labor for barns, silos, houses and other improvements during the war. The farmer who at once avails of the labor supply and gets his improvement work under way, in the long run, may prove to be the prudent business man, for there is reason to believe that farmers who delay in the hope of materially reduced construction costs will have been deprived of the use of these improvements and in the end be forced to pay approximately the building prices now prevailing.

In several States, among them Missouri, Oregon and Colorado, silo building campaigns are being carried on by the Agriculture colleges. In Wisconsin there is milk bonus campaign being vigorously prosecuted in the dairy districts, while in Illinois farmers are being urged to build feeding floors. Other campaigns for farm improvements are on in Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, South Dakota, Kentucky, Idaho and in localities in Texas and Iowa. While many of these are being conducted by building interests, the Division of Public Works and Construction Development of the U. S. Department of Labor is interested in seeing them successfully carried out because the Division realizes such activities on the farms are bound to have a beneficial effect on general business conditions.

All real progressive farmers should have an unusual interest in road building at this time. If farming is to continue on its present profitable level, there must be no business stagnation in the country and the vast road building projects in the various States are destined to exert a profound influence in keeping "business as usual" or "better than usual." Road building creates a demand for materials and absorbs labor, and the labor problem is a serious one at present and will continue serious until American industries have readjusted themselves to peace production on a scale to meet the augmented demand of America and Europe.

The Trans-Mississippi Readjustment Congress, held in Omaha, Neb., late in February, summarized the present situation in the following language:

"We do not favor a pause in the industrial process to await some future readjustment of wages and prices of staples. So far as public improvements are concerned, they should be resumed at once. It is better that the public should absorb the increased cost, if any should hereafter appear, than that general unemployment and consequent disaster and social disorder should follow.

"We believe also that the promoters of private construction and business enlargement should take heart of courage and should believe in the immediate resumption of business property in the United States. There is no place in the American scheme of things for the pessimist or the doubter. Our country today leads the world in prosperity. It can lose its leadership only by its own faint-heartedness. We especially deprecate any concerted holding back of construction and business resumption, for the purpose of forcing a reduction in wages or cost of material.

"Both as a means of stimulating the resumption of industry and removing the shadow of unemployment from the working people and also serve the broader and more permanent purpose of supplementing the railroad lines and to develop the inland and farm commerce of the country, the work of constructing good roads should be promptly carried on by cooperation of the Federal and State Governments and local communities."

In the recent Conference of Governors and Mayors in Washington, it was apparent that these executives were disposed to go in for extensive road and public improvement campaigns in their respective districts. These can be made a success only when they are supported by the citizens. For this reason, the farmer, as well as the city dweller, who understands how important building and construction work now is affecting general business conditions, will back up his local officials in every reasonable campaign for road building and public works of a necessary sort.
